

This Is The Day (words and music by Richard Blauvelt)

I have seen a new star in the sky
And the east is consumed with its fire
Its light chases the darkness away
And the night is transformed into day
My friends say this star points to a king
They invite me to join them and see
As a skeptic I fail to agree
Still I follow despite these beliefs

This is the day. I will follow You
This is the day. I will put my trust in You
This is the day. It's a bright and glorious day.
This is the day. I will follow You

I believe in the wisdom of man
It's deep mysteries I do understand
I have been to the ends of the earth
I've no interest in this "royal birth"
As we travel these doubts fill my mind
Jewish myths seem a great waste of time
For its knowledge and wisdom I seek
Tell me what's to be learned from this king

This is the day. I will follow You
This is the day. I will put my trust in You
This is the day. It's a bright and glorious day.
This is the day. I will follow You
This is the day. It's a bright and glorious day.
This is the day. I will follow You

There's a stable outside Bethlehem
It is here that my journey will end
In a manger this infant I see
Touches something deep inside of me
For I know in my heart He is God
As the tears start to flow from my eyes
Overwhelmed in this glorious place
I can't help but fall on my face

This is the day. I will worship You
This is the day. I will lay my crown before You
This is the day. It's a holy, sacred day.
This is the day. I will follow You
This is the day. It's a bright and glorious day.
This is the day. I will follow You
